Lumbermen of Northwest Lodge Complaint Against Railroads for Institution of Joint Rate.

ANSWERS ARE FILED BY SIX.

Gould Lines Are Auxious for Ruling While Harriman Lines Have Failed To Transmit a Reply.

Scattle, Wash., May 22. Six railroads made defendants in the Washington lumbermen's fight to open the Portland gateway have replied to the complaint lodged with the inter-state commerce commission. The hearing on the suit has been set for June 11 at Washington and Secy. Victor H. Beckman, of the Pacific Coast Lumbe at Washington and Secy. Victor It. Beckman, of the Pacific Coast Lumber Manufacturers' association, one of the three lumber organizations interested, is now on his way east to be present at that time. The railread replies are summarized thus:

The Portlan's Terminal company declares it has no interest in the outcome of the suit, being a merely transfer organization. The Northern Pacific claims the opening of a through route by granting the joint rate will be of no advantage because both the Northern Pacific and Union Pacific have all the traffic they can handle from mills tributary to the two systems. The Colorado Midland, a Gould line, is eager for the ruling and urges the inter-state commerce commission to grant it, provided equitable rates will be given.

The Colorado Southern declares it has no interest in the fight and a similar abswer is returned by the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fc.

Despite the fact that E. H. Harriman testified at the New York hearing of the inter-state commerce commission that he had long tried to secure an adjustment of the joint rate difficulty through Portland and would welcome an investigation, none of the Harriman lines has transmitted a reply to the lumber interests.

He told me he had shipped 200 Russians and 1,200 Chin-ese on April 10. They are to work on the New Cananea. Toqui river and Pastific line.

Of course, this is only an experiment," said Mr. Hazelett. "The Russians, however, are splendid men. The Chinese are from the northern part of their country and are 'scrappers' by nature. They are the sort that took part in the Boxer uprising."

Mr. Hazelett purchased in Japan a large quantity of railway sleepers for shipment to Mexico.

The Colorado Mdland Ry, has been presented with three cub bears which were captured near Camp Roosevelt a few miles from Glenwood Springs, Colo, by Jake Borah and Jas, Hayes who were Roosevelt's guides on his recent hunting trip to that part of the country. The cubs were on exhibition in the windows of the Midland office at Denver all last week and were the delight of the children of this city, the streets being blocked at times by the crowds who were struggling to get up to the windows. They have been officially named as the three Midland Teddy She.

Bears, Teddy B., Teddy G., and Teddy She.

Mr. Lee Hanley the advertising agent of the Midland leaves Denver today with the little Teddy family for Washington, where they will be shown to the president. He will then make a trip to all the larger cities of the east and will put them on exhibition in the windows of the large department stores.

Anna Held who is at present singing a Teddy Bear song in one of the New York show houses, has asked that she be allowed to use one of them on the stage while she is singing the song, in place of a stuffed Teddy Bear which she carries, and Mr. Haney has consented to allow this to be done. They are about two months old and tame as pupples. It is probable that they will be brought to Salt Lake later in the summer and be placed in the windows of the Midland ticket office for a short time.

this morning came off on schedule time and succeeded in lining the streets with the usual circus crowds. At the intersection of Main and Second South streets the crowd was so numerous that it became necessary to suspend traffice until the parade had passed, and street cars were lined up clear to Third South, with drays, automobiles, carriages and delivery wagons several deep along the streets awaiting their turn to move on. The circus parade is now and ever has been a source of perennial pleasure to the small boy and the grown up boy, to the little girl and the big girl, and all kinds were out in force this morning. Altogether the parade was a creditable one. Some of the best specimens of horseflesh yet brought to this city by any shows are with the Sells-Floto aggregation, as well as numerous and large "ships of the desert" with humps sufficient to please the multitude; elephants and lions and tigers and parcars were lined up clear to Third South, ants and Hons and tigers and par tots and monkeys and ponies and clowns and in fact all and every in-dividually and collectively the features

MORGAN PURCHASES THE HOENTSCHEL COLLECTION.

New York, May 22.—Announcement is made here today that J. Pierpont Morgan has purchased in Paris for more than $1.000,000, the great Hoentschel collection of carvings, statuary and furniture, considered by experts the greatest assemblage of objects of the applied arts and crafts in the world. Concerning the negotiations and sale of it, the greatest secrecy, it is said, has been maintained for months, owing to a belief that if it became definitely known it was said to Mr. Morgan, and effort would be made by the authorities abroad to prevent its leaving france.

thorities abroad to prevent its leaving France.

Many of its carvings, panels and paintings were taken in times of violence from churches, cathedrals and palaces, and others are of such importance that there was good ground for the apprehension that they might be in some way detained, although France has yet no such drastic prohibition on the expertation of art works as that which obtains in Italy.

News has been received that the last consignment of the splendid collection was on its way to the United States and that there was no longer any cause for fear of official interference. Mr. Morgan has not yet decided what disposition he may make of the entire collection, but it is pated that he has already given a part of it to the Metropolitan museum of art, of which he is president.

SALT LAKERS FORM A COAL COMPANY

Prominent Residents Promise Some Relief From Regular Winter Shortages.

Private enterprize is preparing to take a hand in coping with the reguar winter coal shortage. The People's Coal & Coke company has been organized to take over the property and mines formerly owned by the Salt Lake Fuel company. The mines are in the geographical center of Utah's most extensively developed coal belt, being midway between Colton and Scofield. within 50 feet of the Rio Grande tracks. The incorporators include such well known men as Senator S. H. Love, Isaac Barton, George Y. Wallace, W. S. McCornick, Frank D. Kimball, Congressman Joseph Howell, Lewis T. Gressman Joseph Howell, Lewis 1. Cannon and Prof. Joseph F. Morrill. Mr. Love is president. Isaac Barton, vice president, and I. R. Barton, secretary and treasurer. The company is capitalized for 1,000,000 shares at the par value of $1 each. Of this, 400,000 shares have been set aside as treasury stock. A limited amount of this may be placed in the market to raise funds for development as the property is to be worked on an extensive scale. Adbe worked on an extensive scale. Additional holdings will be taken in by the company.

The lay of the mines will permit extraction at low cost. The roof formation is favorable in that no timbering will be necessary. Experts who have examined the properties believe coal can be taken out from various depths. will be hecessary. Experts who have examined the properties believe coal can be taken out from various depths. The U. P. vein has been traced from Scofield to the ground. Tunnel connections in the old mine include 1,500 feet of work. This work is to be carried on. A good feature of the scheme is that the company has been able to trace the title of their holdings back to the government, thus learning that the required statutory price was paid for them. The railroad has assured the company that a modest production during the fall and winter rush will be handled in good shape, and this promises much needed relief from the winter shortages. The coal, itself, is a happy medium between the Rock Springs and Castle Gate varieties, being a little longer burner than the former, and cleaner than the later.

LAKE MOHONK CONFERENCE

Prest. Butler in Opening Address Advocated Avoidance of Question of Disarmament.

PERIOD OF INTERNATIONALISM

At the Hague Should Ask That Court Be Transformed From a Semi-Diplomatic Into Truly Judicial Tribunal.

Lake Mohonk, N. Y. May 22 .- The lake Mohonk conference on internuional arbitration opened its thirteenth annual session today. The election of officers resulted as follows.

President, Dr. Nicholus Murray But-

er, New York: secretary, Clinton R. ler, New York: secretary, Clinton R. Woodruff, Philadelphia: permanent corresponding secretary, H. C. Philips, Mohonk Lake; treasurer, Alexander C. Wood, Camden, N. J. President Murray Butler of Columbia university in his address at the opening, advocated that the question of disarmament be avoided at this conference, but the restriction of the further growth of the armies and navies be urged. He suggested recommendations for the coming conference at the Hague. He spoke in part as follows:

"Unless all signs fail, we are enter-

"Unless all signs fail, we are entering upon a period which may be described fittingly as one of internationalism. Intra-national development is a happy augury for the international erawhich is opening. Like an individual, a nation has a mind and a conscience, and it has them in a very real sense. One of the chief problems of our time is to bring the nations' minds and the nations' consciences to bear on the

is to bring the nations' minds and the nations' consciences to bear on the moral problems involved in international relations. This is a step in the moral education of the world. The more perfect and complete morality of the future is itself to be the product of the incomplete and imperfect, but always improving morality of the past and of the present.

"It is a mistake in history and an error in ethics to apply the standards and ideals of one period to the deeds and accomplishments of an earlier one. Then mankind was an earlier and a cruder being than he is today. Moreover, the nations and their forms of government were only in the making and there is no possible parallel with present conditions. The the making and there is no possible parallel with present conditions. The crucial question is not, will our standards and ideals apply backward, but will they not apply forward? Our political systems, our ethical standards, and our moral aspirations, are a development and are in development today.

a development and are in development today.

"The splendid accomplishment of this conference during all the years of its existence has been the arousing and directing of public opinion. The National Arbitration and Peace Congress in New York gave strong impetus to this work. I feel it not too much to say that Congress, in a single week, carried us forward quite half a century toward the time when higher conceptions of international justice shall prevail. American public opinion will gain in influence abroad if its positive recommendations in regard to the attainment of international justice are both sagacious and reasonable. We must avoid encumbering our program with non-essentials and we must not fail to observe a due sense of proportion in what we recommend.

"Speaking for myself, I should wholly avoid at the present time the question of disarmament. Disarmament will never come by pressure from without a nation, but only by pressure from without an auton, but only by pressure from without a nation, but only by pressure from without an auton, but only by pressu

"Yet while passing disarmament by, we may profitably urge the wisdom of formal international consideration of the possibility of restricting the further growth of the great armies and navies of the world, without impairing the efficiency of those that exist. "From the forthcoming Hague conference we should ask. I think, chiefly two things, and if either of them should be given us, a long step forward would be taken. We should ask that the permanent Hague court be transformed from a semi-diplomatic into a truly judicial tribunal and we should ask that the Hague conference, now assembling for the second time at the call of a mionarch, be made to assemble autofor the second time at the call of a monarch, be made to assemble automatically hereafter at regular intervals, say ence in four or five years. In the stated reassembling of the Hagus conference lies the germ of the international parliament which will one day come into being.

"There is another aspect of international relations in time of war which has not attracted the attention it deserves. The suggestion that neutrality should extend to financial assistance should extend to financial assistance has not been brought forward by im-practicable men.

"One other matter concerns Americans alone. Each time an important international conference occurs, the appointing power searches the country over for the most competent and ef-fective representatives of American in-terests and of American opinion. Why should we not constitute a body of permanent representatives at such in-ternational conferences out of the dis-tinguished men who, as president of the United States of secretary of state, have directed for a time the foreign policy of the nation? These experi-enced statesmen, officially constituted as international conferees on behalf of the United States, and in receipt of an appropriate salary fixed by law, would bring to their task both unusual equipment and unusual experience. Such use of those who had rendered distinguished service to the nation as chief executive or as secretary of state, would be in every respect fitting. "Every portent is favorable for the policies in which we believe and which we urge. The civilized world is at peace and there is no ruler and no party bent on disturbing that peace. The grown rewerful pations are preparty bent on disturbing that peace. The more powerful nations are presided over by monarchs or governments whose faces are turned toward the light. Indeed no responsible ruler is likely, so far as the signs of the moment go to be resonable for breaking the world's peace. If that peace is to be broken, it will be broken I think, by the irresponsible, the reckless and the untamed. At this stage of the world's history, we must all of us unite to hold these elements of the population in check."

The present status of the international arbitration movement was the subject of an address by Benjamin F. Trueblood, secretary of the American Peace society, Boston.
